Section 5. Fire Fighting Measures.

5.1. Extinguishing media

Use extinguishing media appropriate to the surrounding fire conditions.
Water spray, dry chemical or carbon dioxide.
Sand may be used for small fires.

5.2. Special hazards arising from the substance or mixture

Inhalation of the flux fumes given off at soldering temperatures will irritate the nose and throat. The fumes produced by rosin may cause sensitisation by inhalation. Temperatures above 500°C may produce vapours or fumes that, on cooling, may condense as heavy metals dust. Lead is harmful if absorbed into the body and can cause birth defects and other reproductive harm.

5.3. Advice for fire-fighters

Wear full protective clothing and self-contained breathing apparatus.

Section 6. Accidental Release Measures.

6.1. Personal precautions, protective equipment and emergency procedures

Use personal protective equipment. Avoid inhalation of any fume from the hot solder. Avoid contact with hot product and wash hands after handling and before eating, drinking or smoking. Ensure adequate ventilation of the working area.

6.2. Environmental precautions

Do not allow product to enter drains, soil, waterways and sewers.
Prevent further spillage if safe.

6.3. Methods and material for containment and cleaning up

Sweep up and shovel.
Keep in suitable closed containers for disposal.

6.4. Reference to other sections

See Section 7 for information on Safe Handling
See Section 8 for information of Personal Protective Equipment.
See Section 13 for information on disposal.

Section 7. Handling and Storage.

7.1. Precautions for safe handling

Wash hands with soap and warm water after handling soldering products.
Workers should wash hands before eating, drinking and smoking.
Adopt best manual handling considerations when handling, carrying and dispensing.
Keep out reach of children.

7.2. Conditions for safe storage, including any incompatibilities

Keep in a cool, dry, well ventilated area.
Store in correctly labelled containers.
Keep away from direct sunlight.
